Fresh call for investigation into erosion of Southend shoreline

SHORE POINT

EXCLUSIVE

By Paul Giles

southend@yellowad.co.uk

SOUTHEND councillors have called for a second investigation into the erosion of the town's foreshore.

The demand follows an Environment Agency commissioned report, by Dr Andrew Bradbury, over fears that dredging of the River Thames by port operator DP World was causing damage to the estuary.

The £6,000 report concluded there was no evidence of 'wide-spread erosion', and that mud flat movement was due to natural causes.

The report was dismissed as 'nonsense' by members of Southend Council's Place Scrutiny Committee on Monday night.

Councillor Martin Terry, leader of the Independent Party, blasted the report as 'ridiculous', and he mocked claims that erosion was being caused by rainfall.

He said: "It's too much of a coincidence this is happening while the dredge is taking place."

"We need to look at this more. I sit there at night and see the dredge going on, and anyone knows if you have a bucket of sand and try and dig inside it, it just collapses."

Lib Dem councillor Peter Wexham, who was one of the councillors that called for the original report said it was impossible to agree with the report's conclusions.

He argued: "You can physically see that there is erosion. I have no faith in this report.

"I've looked at charts all the way back from Charles II time and none of them show there being shingle on the beach."

Conservative councillor for the Eastwood Park ward, Chris Walker, also demanded a second study on erosion should be commissioned independently.

Cllr Walker said: "The mud that is near the land is sliding out and making the river more shallow. It is physically visible to see."

Gary Watson, area coastal engineer for the Environment Agency, repeatedly dismissed councillors' claims that erosion was visible. He chose instead to refer to it as 'mud movement'. He claimed that this was the result of heavy rainfall, and referred councillors back to the original report's findings.

He said: "The report has found there is no link between the dredge and erosion. It infers it is due to natural changes."

"We need to find out why these changes occur and how we can stop them."

DP World, based at London Gateway, Thurrock, has continually dismissed claims that its dredge - said to be one of the largest in history - has been responsible for erosion of the foreshore.

A spokesman said: "We will assess any new information with the environmental regulators as appropriate."

A decision on whether to commission a second study of the foreshore will be considered by Southend Council's cabinet later this year.

Poems will be recited on Shoreline Festival walk

By Paul Giles

southend@yellowad.co.uk

AN American poet will be hosting guided talks at this years Shoreline Festival.

Justin Hoffman, who comes from Pittsburgh, has been researching Leigh and has written a series of poems about the area that will accompany the walk around the town.

Mr Hoffman, 39, explained there were strong similarities between his home town in America and Leigh.

He said: "Both have a clear history and have parallels between them as well.

"In the 19th century no one lived here apart from a few people. When the railway got put in place it started bringing people to Leigh.

"Like in Pittsburgh, there was a massive population change in a very short amount of time," he explained.

"At that point the estuary was going through a massive change as and if you look at Pittsburgh the same was happening there as well.

"The estuary turned into one of the most important shipping lanes in the country and saw a massive amount of ships going back and forth."

Mr Hoffman also explained some of his detailed research about the estuary had come from a series of newspaper reports he had found about fisherman in the area.

He said: "I have written a series of poems about the estuary from some of the research I have done to go along with the guided walk I will be holding.

"Once I started researching the area I realised a lot of people died at sea from here.

"The poems I have written have taken on a different poet-ic form to what I am used to."

Help clock up charity cash

RUNNERS will be taking part in a marathon in the dark to raise money for Havens Hospice this month.

As the clock strikes midnight on Saturday, October 12, local runners will take to the streets of Southend for Havens Hospices in a unique running event, 'The Midnight Marathon'.

Guided by street lights, runners will start at Little Havens Hospice, winding around Leigh and along Southend seafront to Thorpe Bay, before heading back to the hospice.

Event organiser, Ian Ramsay, 48, from Leigh, is an avid marathon runner and supporter of Havens Hospices, having run the London Marathon for the charity for the past seven years among many other marathons across the country.

Ian explained he has raised approximately £16,000 for the charity and hopes that other local runners will join him to raise money for the local hospices in this event.

Ian said: "I came up with the idea one day as I was running along the seafront and I saw someone wearing a night run teeshirt from New York.

"I thought, what a brilliant idea.

"We should have one right here in Southend."

"It'll be a really unique and peaceful atmosphere running in the middle of the night and will be a really friendly run. Havens Hospices is a charity close to my heart and does such invaluable work in the local community.

"I really hope local runners will join me in supporting this fantastic charity, which does so much for local families.

"So, whether you're an experienced marathon runner or are just starting your training, all levels are welcome to take part."

Runners can either choose to run a full 26.2 mile marathon, a 10k shorter route or enter as a relay team. All participants will be given a teeshirt and medal as a thank you for taking part. Entrance fee for the marathon is £25 and runners are encouraged to ask friends and family for sponsorship. Registration and refreshments on the night open at 10.30pm at Little Havens Hospice in Thundersley.

For more information, to book a place or to volunteer at the event please contact Ian on ianbr7@gmail.com or follow @MidniteMarathon on Twitter.

CCTV after train station guard is punched in face

A MEMBER of staff was assaulted at Southend Central station after two men tried to jump a ticket barrier.

British Transport Police (BTP) officers have released CCTV footage of two suspects in the hope someone will recognise them.

PC Maria Wheele, investigating officer, explained that two men entered the booking hall of Southend Central around 1.05pm, on Tuesday, August 27.

She said: "One of the men then forced his way through the ticket barrier without showing a valid ticket.

"As the second man tried to do the same, a security guard stepped in to stop him passing through.

"The first man then punched the victim in the face, before they both left the station."

PC Wheele added: "This was a nasty and unnecessary experience for a member of staff simply trying to do their job.

"We do not tolerate abuse on rail staff or customers and will always do everything in our power to identify and prosecute anyone who carries out this type of unacceptable behaviour."

Anyone with information is asked to contact British Transport Police on freefone 0800 40 50 40 or text 61016 quoting reference B11/LNA of 25/09/2013. Alternatively, information can be passed to the independent charity, Crimestoppers, free and anonymously on 0800 555 111.

WANTED: These two men are wanted in connection with assault on staff in Southend Central train station

Badger cull almost over - for now

THANKFULLY, the cruel badger cull shooting trials imposed by this government will soon be over - for this year anyway.

Many badgers have been found shot out of the culling areas, although Defra has denied any implication. The fact is the persecution of these little animals has escalated since the cull was announced. It has been almost impossible to glean any information from Defra on numbers killed so far. We do however know for sure that their aim was to kill 5,000, i.e. 70 per cent in allocated areas - and this without even knowing the numbers of badgers in the chosen areas.

We also know for sure that during these initial trials, none of the badgers shot will be tested for bTB. The abiding and overwhelming suspicion remains that the absence of testing is motivated solely by a deep-seated fear that such testing would show minimal infection. It is madness and totally unworkable.

If, as Defra insists, this cull is about assessing the humanness of the method of culling, why does it need to kill 5,000 badgers? It doesn't take 5,000 to work out whether marksmen can aim properly.

Defra has also stated that the cull will be repeated for four years. No ifs. No buts. It WILL be repeated. Regardless of the results of this supposed pilot. Regardless of whether free-shooting is assessed as humane. Regardless of the fact that cull organisers will have no more idea of the incidence of bTB in the badger population they have just tried to eradicate. This has as much to do with science as the Flat Earth Society.

It was good to hear that the Labour Party is demanding an urgent update on the progress of the pilot culls. Shadow Defra Secretary Mary Creagh has vowed that if her party wins the next election it would scrap the coalition's plans for further badger culls.

Planes are a conversation breaker

HOW I sympathise with Mr Fairbrass (letters Oct 4). I've lived in Collier Row for nearly 60 years and always appreciated the quiet until the flight path from London City Airport was changed a few years ago.

When we're in the garden with friends we often have to stop the conversation until we can hear each other speak again. I wake to the sound of aircraft noise and go to sleep by it.

To the person who thinks we should just 'stop moaning' I hope that if something similar happens to seriously affect your quality of life you will remember not to moan-it's just progress.

Lynn Whitbread
Collier Row

Don't blame the planes on councillors

IN YOUR recent publication two local residents made comments about the noise and the importance of airports for jobs, the later I fully support.

I attended some while back a meeting with the chairman of City Airport and some of his senior team, where the increased noise to residents of Havering particularly around the St Leonards' Estate area, was having a negative impact on the quality of lives for some people.

From the meeting it was clear that Newham Council was the body who originally approved the extension of flights to the airport, at which time, neighbouring boroughs were informally told, but as the flight paths were over the water, it did not seem to be a problem, however, once the increased number of flights were active, the flight paths were altered, and many of the aeroplanes now fly over Hornchurch airspace.

The increase at the airport does however have a positive result, many residents from Havering are employed there and it does help with the much needed business that this country needs. On my visit I meet with a number of the Havering employees.

Like trains, air traffic, is used by commuters who need to be in Europe for a breakfast meeting and home again for tea, this is progress and no matter what some individuals think, it is here to stay.

City Airport air traffic stops at midday on Saturday and does not resume until mid day on Sunday, and as mentioned the planes do not all come from City Airport there is great activity from Heathrow.

The decisions lie with the Aviation Authority, and it is not a decision taken by a councillor or councillors here in Havering, so I suggest that anyone who has a gripe about anything in this connections should direct their moans to this body and stop blaming local councillors for everything.

We councillors live here in the borough, we take a big interest in what goes on and we really do our best, but there are some areas that we have either little or no control over and this is one of them.

Cllr Georgina V Galpin
Havering Conservative councillor

Is this to be our legacy?

SO after months of so called consultation, the Conservative administration at Basildon Council has carried out its original intention and voted to axe the hot meals at the day centres.

The Labour councillor George Hurd donated land in 1963 to start a centre for the older generation of Basildon. The present centre bearing his name is a legacy to that generosity.

The present administration appears to focus on maximising the return on its property assets and is happy to demolish community centres in order to build a few more houses. It is also happy to remove open space from Gloucester Park. Again to build more houses.

Once the community centres have gone, once the open spaces have gone they will never be replaced.

Is this to be our legacy for the next generation?

Cashless buses are a bad idea

SOME new figures about cashless fares following last week's 'this is meant to be a public service' letter from S Goldman.

TfL's 'London buses going cashless' consultation document says it will save £24 million a year in operating costs by 2020.

And the same document says 60,000 passengers pay the extra £1 fare every day - although TfL's Annual report says 85,000 passengers are paying the cash fare.

However if we settle for a figure of 70,000 this generates an income of £25.5 million a year and means the cash fare is already generating £1.5 million more income than the forecast saving in 7 years' time.

In addition more than £30 million in credit remains on the Oyster cards every year. So even if the costs of handling cash fares did rise above income, a small part of the credit on the Oyster cards could pay the difference.

In other words 'London buses going cashless' is a bad idea, because it will lose TfL money and result in a poorer bus service.

You dance with the devil

AFTER the dust had settled from the Jotmans Farm vote, the next few applications at Kiln Rd on Tuesday may have slipped under the radar.

David Wilson Homes green belt development at Kiln Rd, had an application for a reduction in the section 106 agreement of 53 affordable homes, to be reduced to 30 affordable homes. The reason was that the section 106 agreement signed in January 2013, could not be fulfilled due to the reduction of government grants now available. As a result David Wilson Homes could now not afford to supply the agreed figure and had to resort to the legal minimum figure. As a legal agreement had been signed by both parties, the motion was carried by the chairman's vote.

At the moment green belt development is allowed, to make up a shortfall in affordable housing, in fact this is the only argument that developers have, and use to build on green belt land. Let's hope the legal team from CPBC will learn from this as Persimmon and the rest of the developers will use the affordable housing stance again and again.

A parcel of prime green belt land was released only for the amount of affordable houses to be almost halved, thus allowing the lack of supply to be used by other developers in their appeals on other green belt sites.

It is also worth pointing out that the next two items on the agenda on Tuesday were changes to 'market value' homes within the same development. They were to add a garage to a number of properties and to add a second garage to properties that already had a garage, to increase market value (i.e. David Wilson Homes profits).

You dance with the devil.....

Lotto change won't bring in more cash

THE people running the lottery company obviously do not understand the first thing about economics. Most would-be millionaires do not buy X number of already overpriced tickets, but spend the amount of money they are willing to give up for the snowball's chance in hell to win something. Therefore, the people will not buy the same number of more expensive tickets, but will spend the same amount of money, to get half as many tickets. Duh!

So the Camelot management should not be too surprised if their lottery sales go down even further. By the way, they have been going down because the 'games' are getting lamer, but more importantly, the returns are lower and lower and the chances to win something are getting more and more astronomical. And another thing, the Camelot management must really think (I use the word loosely), that none of us can do maths anymore - the price of a ticket went up by 100 per cent, but the payouts by only about 60 per cent. Also, I do not think they should be spending so much on the charities. I may want to gamble, but I also want to select which charity to support myself.

Fireworks were a real treat

I JUST wanted to say how lovely it was on Southend seafrost on Saturday evening. The free firework display was lovely and it was really nice to be entertained by a range of bands and musicians as we strolled along the seafrost with the grandchildren - they really loved it and want to go back again.

I would urge anyone to go down to the seafrost over the next few weeks as I'm told there will be fireworks every Saturday evening for the next few weekends.

Thank you to everyone involved for putting on a wonderful evening.

By LIZ WADE

EVEN as a child Tony Stockwell knew he was different from other children as it was perfectly normal for him to be aware of events before they happened, hear his name being called by the unseen and see those that others could not.

When he was invited by a friend to a local spiritualist church when he was 16 he knew from the moment he set foot inside what he wanted to do with his life, and this was the start of his journey to become one of the country's most well-known and respected psychic mediums.

The 44-year-old from Wickford has taken every opportunity over the years to demonstrate his mediumistic ability and push the boundaries of his work, wanting each message from the other side to be as perfect as possible in his bid to prove that spirits are eternal and are able to communicate with us.

He got his big break when he was approached to do a new series called Street Psychic for Living TV around nine years ago, and since then has appeared in one off specials and several of his own television series including Psychic Academy, The Psychic Detective and Psychic School. Tony, who has assisted law enforcement agencies and the police with investigations, has also appeared on The Sixth Sense, Most Haunted Live 4, The Mystery of Body 115 and I'm Famous and Frightened.

While Tony, who says his "main motivation is and will always be the love of the work", may have appeared on many television shows and travelled the world he hasn't forgotten his roots.

Tony said: "Equally it's important for me to keep a connection with the churches as this is my background and where my journey began. I still get just as excited when I work at Canvey Island Spiritualist Church for just a handful of people as I did all those years ago at my first demonstration.

"I've lived in Wickford for almost 15 years now but Canvey Island is where I was brought up. My parents still live there, so it still feels like home."

During another manic year, including appearing all over the UK and Ireland, as well as in the USA, Australia, Canada, Spain, Holland and Switzerland, Tony will heading back to his Essex roots this month when he appears at Towngate Theatre, Basildon, on October 22.

Recent legislative guidelines insist that any evening of mediumship should be billed 'for entertainment purposes' and Tony certainly offers this thanks to his natural wit, showmanship and charisma.

Often working with photographs or objects he takes his audience on a spiritual and emotional roller coaster, using his extraordinary abilities to communicate messages.

Tony said: "I endeavour to do my best for every audience giving them evidential messages from their loved ones and proving their continued existence. The demonstrations are often very touching but I try, through humour, to make it more of a celebration, not something morbid."

He added: "Experience teaches you to wrap up the crux of the message in such a way that only the recipient knows what you are referring to. I am always very conscious not to embarrass people or air their laundry in public, as I wouldn't like this done to me. I am also very aware not to drag out the emotion of the message too much.

"Passing on terms of endearment can be part of any message, but prolonging on that aspect of the message rather than the evidence is not something I teach my students."

For those that are sceptical Tony said: "There is a difference between those who are sceptical and those who are open minded by sitting on the fence. The latter will have an enquiring mind and will often come along to a demonstration to see for themselves. Some will go away convinced and some will not, that's just how it is.

"For the hardened sceptic, no proof will ever be enough and they will always find a way to explain away what they have witnessed."

Tony hopes that through his current work he will make others aware that there's something more than just our current lives. He added: "Whether through mental or physical mediumship, on TV or through small groups, if you can bless one person's life to absolutely believe beyond doubt that their mum, their dad, their son, or their daughter is actually going to be there waiting for them and it gives them comfort, then that's worth doing."

"For further information about Tony Stockwell: An Evening of Psychic Mediumship, which will be at Towngate Theatre, Basildon, on Tuesday, October 22, call the Box Office on 01268 465465 or visit www.town-gatetheatre.co.uk

Stars come out for London film festival

MOVIE stars have descended on the capital for the BFI London Film Festival. The city will host star-studded screenings of some of the industry's most hotly-anticipated films, months before some of them go on general release.

US A-listers Tom Hanks and Sandra Bullock will appear at the festival, which started on Wednesday, alongside British talent like Daniel Radcliffe, Kate Winslet and Dame Judi Dench.

STAR POWER: Movie legend Tom Hanks, pictured with Emma Thompson in 'Saving Mr Banks', will open and close the festival

The 12-day festival will see 235 films screened in venues across London.

Tom Hanks will open the festival with thriller 'Captain Phillips', about the hijack of a US container ship by Somali pirates, and close it with his portrayal of Walt Disney in 'Saving Mr Banks', about the making of 'Mary Poppins'.

Other gala screenings will include 'Philomena', starring Steve Coogan and Dame Judi Dench, and 3D space drama 'Gravity', featuring George Clooney and Sandra Bullock.

As well as glamorous red carpet debuts in central London, screenings will be held in Brixton, Bethnal Green and Hackney.

Tickets to week day matinees cost £9 and are often attended by cast and crew members for question and answer sessions.

Reporter and festival fanatic Charles Thomson will be updating his Yellow Advertiser blog with regular dispatches from the red carpet.

To read his reports, visit <http://www.yellowad.co.uk/blogs.cfm>.

For tickets and information about all of the films screening at the festival, visit www.bfi.org.uk/iff.

PREMIERE: Steve Coogan and Dame Judi Dench are expected to attend the red carpet premiere of 'Philomena'

Museum's licence to thrill

EVERYONE knows James Bond but was there really a person with a 'licence to kill' that he was actually based on?

Amongst tales of spies and secret missions at the Combined Military Services Museum in Maldon there is a collection of items belonging to former secret agents Peter and Prue Mason.

Clothing, weapons and equipment, such as items that can hide camera films, guns disguised as pens, a shoe with a hidden knife, and an umbrella that can kill, give us a glimpse of the lives of Captain Peter Mason, a former member of the post-war SAS Baker Team who was issued a licence to kill by the British Government, and his wife.

But what is even more fascinating is their link with Ian Fleming, the creator of the famous secret agent. As Peter was Ian's friend was this where the writer got some of his ideas from? Quite possibly.

The tales of Peter and Prue are just one of the gems at this fascinating museum, which has a vast range of artefacts including a number of items of national importance such as the only surviving MK2 Cockle canoe and other equipment used in the Cockleshell Heroes raid.

The Royal Marines trained in this canoe to prepare for a secret mission, during the Second World War in 1942, to raid ships in Bordeaux harbour in France. Of the 12 men who embarked on the mission – Operation Frankton – only four of them reached the target to plant limpet mines on a number of ships, and only two survived.

While all the canoes were lost during the mission, the story of which was told in the 1955 film The Cockleshell Heroes, the one they trained in still survives in the museum.

The Combined Military Services Museum was set up by Richard Woodbridge who began collecting items associated with Britain's military history at the age of just seven.

Set across three floors it houses everything you could think of from the army, navy and air force, as well as items from the secret services and the special forces.

It has a large number of display cases packed with items for you to feast your eyes on, all of which are accompanied by the information on what they are and the stories behind many of them.

Its Royal Navy collection ranges from early shipwreck artefacts including a 15th century cannon, to uniforms and equipment, its RAF display features rare survival and escape equipment, aircraft munitions and a TSR2 jet engine – the only remaining example on public display – and its army collection spans from the civil war to today's high tech equipment.

Another collection, one of the finest in the country, is focused on the English Civil war itself and includes armour, swords polearms, muskets and clothing from the period and there is also an ancient display – the Wall of Steel – where an oak panelled wall by the museum's entrance is covered with weapons from medieval times to the Napoleonic Wars.

But the displays are not all about the conflicts and equipment themselves at the museum, there are also a wide range of personal documents and artefacts focusing on how people lived during wars, from the ration books and identity cards to the shrapnel that fell from the skies.

And, as well as the items that can fit inside the museum, much larger ones can be viewed outside its entrance including a T69 tank captured by the British troops in the Gulf War and a Chieftan tank in urban camouflage which was used in the defence of West Berlin during the Cold War.

eating out

Enjoy a real Greek feast

Advertisement feature

ONE of the area's most popular Greek restaurants has attracted a growing band of fans since opening its doors more than 10 years ago and it is easy to see why.

With 25 main dishes, 28 starters, two set meals, and a variety of desserts on the menu, there is always something new to try at the Akropolis in Westcliff.

For those with a huge appetite to satisfy, Akropolis serves up a Greek Meze menu every day for £20.95 per person.

The menu, which introduces diners to the Cypriot way of eating, starts with tasty dips and pitta bread, and is followed by cold starters and fish dishes, Cypriot wine sausages, smoked loin of pork and grilled goat's milk cheese. Then it's onto the meats, and even Kleftico and Stifado for those looking for more. To finish you are given a taste of Greek Pastries and an array of fresh fruits.

The Akropolis Meze, available for two or more people, is ideal for parties as the menu is meant to be lingered over.

There is also a Kleftico Feast, including traditional dips and pitta bread, Kleftico, Greek Pastries and a platter of fresh fruits, for £18.95 per person.

The mouth-watering food is not the only Akropolis attraction - the restaurant also produces a good line in live music on most days through the week.

The restaurant, which can comfortably seat up to 60 people and has a well-stocked, fully licensed bar, can cater for any occasion whether it's a quiet meal for two or a birthday celebration.

The Akropolis will also be the perfect place for festive celebrations this Christmas, whether you want to celebrate with family, friends or work colleagues, and it will also be open on Christmas Day and Boxing Day.

Anyone interested in making a booking this Christmas is urged to call for further information and book early to avoid disappointment.

With its experienced chefs and friendly, helpful staff, Akropolis offers a top quality, value-for-money evening out.

Akropolis, which can also satisfy any special dietary needs and offer children-friendly dishes, is open seven days a week, from 5pm to midnight from Monday to Thursday, from 5pm to 1am on Friday and Saturday, and from noon to midnight on Sunday.

The Akropolis is located at 120 Station Road, Westcliff, and ample parking is available just 50 yards away, by the Cliffs Pavilion.

Search for truth in a web of lies

The Fifth Estate (15, 128 mins)

DURING a pivotal speech in Bill Condon's contentious film about the rise of WikiLeaks, founder Julian Assange (Benedict Cumberbatch) paraphrases the words of Oscar Wilde as justification for using whistleblowers to shame governments into transparency.

"Give a man a mask and he'll tell you the truth," draws Assange to a hall of potential acolytes.

Whether there is absolute truth in The Fifth Estate is debatable.

Based in part on Daniel Domscheit-Berg's unflattering book Inside WikiLeaks: My Time with Julian Assange At The World's Most Dangerous Website, Condon's film has been denounced by the website, which insists "most of the events depicted never happened".

There are certainly elements of The Fifth Estate that beggar belief, including the central relationship between Assange and Domscheit-Berg (Daniel Bruhl).

On screen, the white-haired Australian founder is depicted as manipulative, self-serving and bullying. He treats everyone, particularly nice guy Daniel, with lip-curling disdain which forces us to question why the two men would continue to work together when one is painted as a monster.

"Remember Daniel, courage is contagious," Julian instructs his awe-struck protege, who learns to make calls on disposable mobile phones and to always look over his shoulder in case he is being followed.

Cumberbatch's portrayal of Assange is mesmerising. The vocal patterns and mannerisms all seem polished to perfection but the cold blackness in his eyes refuses to let us in, even for a second.

The film opens in London, July 2010, in the offices of The Guardian. Editor Alan Rusbridger (Peter Capaldi), Deputy Ian Katz (Dan Stevens) and reporter Nick Benedict Cumberbatch as Julian Assange, Daniel Bruhl as Daniel Berg, Carice van Houten as Birgitta Jonsdottir and Moritz Bleibtreu as Marcus.

Davies (David Thewlis) are poised to publish their front page story about the Bradley Manning leaks in tandem with The New York Times and Der Spiegel.

The film rewinds two years to sketch the relationship between Julian and Daniel, who meet at a conference and embark on their quest to expose corruption within the upper echelons of power. Julian demands absolutely loyalty, which puts intolerable strain on Daniel's relationship with his girlfriend, Birgitta (Carice van Houten). Meanwhile, Deputy Undersecretary Of State, Sarah Shaw (Laura Linney), becomes increasingly concerned by the power wielded by WikiLeaks.

The Fifth Estate repeatedly sticks the knife into Assange, like when one character tartly quips "Only someone so obsessed with his own secrets could have come up with a way to publish everyone else's."

Cumberbatch's theatrics are bolstered with solid support and Condon demonstrates directorial brio to realise the virtual world for the cinematic medium.

Every character except for Assange abides by a moral compass through thick and thin, including the British media, painting the world as black and white. We don't need WikiLeaks to tell us that's an illusion.

Capturing the Best

There's more to property marketing than meets the eye, and good agents will always be one step ahead when it comes to ensuring that their clients' properties are comprehensively exposed to the right audience.

Of course, advertising both in the local property newspaper and on-line are effective up to a point. However, the skill of a good agent is to ensure that the right buyers are not only attracted to the agency, but are also prompted to buy. Many of our buyers currently live outside the area and enjoy the assistance of an agent who is prepared to help them with their move, not just offer them loads of property details!

Many of our London buyers and foreign investors are prompted to contact us via our membership of the National Homes Network. The NHN is a close group of around 250 specially selected and approved independent estate agents in the UK and with additional associated offices in Ireland, USA, Spain, New Zealand and Australia. We talk to each other, and through the NHN, we are able to promote property via an impressive office in Marble Arch, Central London. This is a wonderful shop window for those who are interested in buying in this area, but who cannot always visit personally. Our representatives at NHN have direct access to our clients' properties and buyers in London often make appointments to view there and then!

We find this method of capturing the powerful London market very productive as it provides us with buyers which other agents are likely to miss, in addition to those who contact us through more traditional means. And more buyers means faster sales and higher prices for our clients!

Whatever your requirements, our approach is to ensure that you are not simply satisfied with our marketing efforts on your behalf, but delighted!

Connells 'Help to Buy Fortnight' Starts 12th October

Local estate agency Connells in Rayleigh is holding a dedicated 'Help to Buy Fortnight' from 12th October to 26th October designed to help and advise buyers looking to use the scheme.

Following the success of its 'Help to Buy Week' back in June, Connells expects to see even more interest from new homes buyers at its upcoming event, especially with the broad range of developments it is currently offering with the scheme.

Help to Buy enables buyers to purchase a new build property worth up to £600,000 with a five-year, interest-free Government loan for up to 20% of the value of the property. This means buyers may need only a 5% deposit to purchase a brand new home. It also means they can potentially afford a larger property which will fulfil their needs for a longer time period rather than having to upsize again a few years down the line.

"I would urge buyers to get in touch during our 'Help to Buy Fortnight' to discuss whether they can benefit from the scheme," says Simone Dhanjal, Area Partner for New Homes. "We have seen a phenomenal level of interest in using Help to Buy to purchase a new home since it was launched.

"In light of the recent announcement of a new Help to Buy scheme available for all properties, we expect to see even more interest in larger, new-build homes as first-time buyers use the second part of the scheme to free up second and third time home movers who have been trying to upsize," Simone continues.

There are now two schemes available including Help to Buy equity loans for new homes and Help to Buy mortgage guarantee which is available on all properties.

"The latest announcement by the Government was three months earlier than expected and is fantastic news for buyers, who can use it to make a purchase, and sellers, who will benefit from the influx of buyers we expect to see and can even use Help to Buy themselves on their onward purchase," Simone continues. "During our 'Help to Buy Fortnight' we are hoping to speak to as many people as possible about how they could use Help to Buy."

If you are interested in purchasing a new or second hand property using Help to Buy, or would like to sell your home as part of Connells 'Help to Buy Fortnight', please contact the branch on: 01268 77 77 67 or email: rayleigh@connells.co.uk

The coupe that copes

THE C-Class has always been one of Mercedes-Benz's best sellers but buyers have often faced a dilemma – should they get the more spacious saloon or opt for the more stylish coupé.

Now the German luxury car maker has made things a little easier by producing a car which combines the best of both worlds – the new CLA.

It's available as either petrol or diesel in either Sport or AMG Sport trim with, surprisingly, both petrol versions being manual and both diesel versions being automatic. What is even more surprising is that prices start from just £24,355, although the petrol version even in AMG trim is only powered by a 1.6-litre engine, albeit turbocharged.

With full body kit including side skirts, dramatic low front and rear valances, twin exhausts and suspension lowered by 20mm at the front and 15mm at the rear, the

By Edward Stephens

AMG model is a very macho looking car, although a little bit of a sheep in wolf's clothing. The interior is dramatic too, with the high-backed sports seats, aluminium sports pedals, black headlining and red stitching.

And while the 122bhp transverse petrol engine is far from the quickest from Mercedes, its performance is still respectable and it ensures the car should average around 50 miles to the gallon officially, although with a gentle right foot the most I could manage was 44mpg.

Inspired by the larger CLS coupe, the CLA is the most aerodynamic production car in the world, which plays a major part in making it as quiet as it is. On the road there is hardly any wind noise at all. There is good rear legroom and rear seat passengers get a more elevated position so they can see the road ahead more easily.

The CLA has a decent sized 470-litre boot – the CLS version's is somewhat limited – and the seats fold down in a one third/two thirds split.

First gear lacks a little urgency and to get the best out of the petrol engine you have to wind the revs up but I enjoyed the performance and certainly was bowled over by the appearance, ride and comfort.

The manual six-speed gearbox is a dream and even though there is a dashboard-mounted electric handbrake the car comes with a hill holder clutch to avoid any problems when pulling away on inclines.

The twin dashboard dials are conventional but there is a 5.8in free-standing display screen mounted near the centre of the dash for sat-nav and controlling most of the onboard functions.

The car I drove came with Parktronic – which parks the car for you – as well as Adaptive High Beam Assist, a brilliant system which automatically switches the headlights to main beam when the road ahead is dark and dips beam when oncoming cars appear.

And on the subject of lighting, open either of the front doors and you see the name Mercedes-Benz illuminated on the sills. Nice.

BEST OF BOTH: The Mercedes-Benz CLA 180 AMG Sport is a family car with coupe styling

BATTLE OF THE SEXES: Research shows the male and female approaches to learning to drive

Girls vs boys: An L of a difference

A FASCINATING insight into the differences between male and female learners drivers has been revealed. Research from The Co-operative Insurance shows men, on average, will undertake only 16 hours of driving tuition while women will need 22 hours before passing their test.

The research also says females spend almost 40 per cent more on lessons than males, with the average woman spending £528 compared with just £384 for men. And 20 per cent of men will choose not to take lessons with a driving instructor compared to 10 per cent of women.

Both sexes require on average two attempts to pass their test but men will ditch the L-plates two months ahead of women, with the average age to pass a test being 19.5 for a male and 19.7 for a female.

The findings also show that men and women show a different attitude towards the road once they pass their test, with men being surer of their own driving ability.

Grant Mitchell, head of motor insurance at The Co-operative Insurance, said: "Our findings show that men tend to need less practice before passing their test, although this doesn't necessarily make them the better drivers. In fact, because women tend to take more time learning to drive they are likely to have built up more experience of the road before they pass their test."

Scrap Cars

End of the road
for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your

BLUES FINALLY TURN THE TIDE

Southend United

Oxford United 0 Southend United 2
Sky Bet League Two

By Rowland Lyons at the Kassam Stadium

TWO first-half strikes from Conor Clifford and Luke Prosser saw Southend bag their first win since mid-August against second-place Oxford on Saturday.

The improving Shrimpers – on the back of two battling draws – proved too good for a side, that despite seeing former Portsmouth and Reading striker, Dave Kitson, go close early doors, the visitors were ultimately good value for their second away win of the season.

Settling to play some of their best football since the start of the season, it was no surprise that Clifford should find the net as three Oxford defenders went for the same ball from Kevan Hurst's 13th cross, and the unmarked summer signing let fly and his stunning drive was still rising as it crossed the unsighted, Ryan Clarke's line.

It was all Southend and despite U's Johnny Mullins testing Bentley with a close-range header, the Blues doubled their lead on 30 minutes when Prosser met Hurst's cracking free-kick and nodded powerfully past a stranded Clarke.

Barry Corr then missed a great chance to put the game out of reach four minutes later, but saw his close-range effort blocked by Mullins.

Well worth their first-half lead, Southend continued in the same vein after the break and should have been three up before the hour mark when a clean-through Hurst could only shoot straight at Clarke.

A well-organized Southend defence then limited the U's to few chances and only Kitson hit the target on 67 minutes, but found the underworked Bentley in good form.

Cauley Woodrow – enjoying a rare start – should have made the points safer late on – but twice missed when clean through, to leave boss, Phil Brown, admitting: "It [the win] was a long time coming and we scored two goals and could have had a few more. People get frightened at two-nil scorelines, but I would rather be at two-nil up."

Despite upsetting the form book with the win, Brown warned: "This win puts pressure on the players, management and supporters as the expectancy levels at this football club are quite high."

"This is just one game in a run of forty-six and we need to compound this with a win at home to Dagenham in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy (tomorrow, Tuesday) and at Burton Albion on Saturday."

Brown paid tribute to both goalscorers: "Conor Clifford showed a lot of tenacity today and when he shoots, he invariably hits the target. Luke Prosser celebrated like it was a long time coming. But it was Hurst's quality [free-kick] into the six-yard box, and Luke has got his reward."

Matchwinner, Clifford, added: "We just needed a win to get us going again. We were very unlucky in the games we lost – giving away late goals. We just needed to get back to winning ways and put a little run together. In this league, if you get a four or five-game run together, then it can really put you right back up there. Hopefully, with these three points we can really kick on."

Southend were due to entertain Dagenham & Redbridge in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy, Second Round tonight (Tuesday) and are on the road again at Burton Albion this Saturday (kick-off 3pm).

OXFORD UNITED: Ryan Clarke – David Hunt, Johnny Mullins (captain), Michael Raynes, Tom Newey – Alfie Potter, Asa Hall (Scott Davies 70), Danny Rose, Sean Rigg (Callum O'Dowda 70) – David Kitson, Deane Smalley (James Constable 54). Subs (not used): Max Crocombe (gk), Ryan Williams, Matt Bevans, Josh Ruffles.

SOUTHEND UNITED: Daniel Bentley – John White, Adam Thomson, Luke Prosser, Ben Coker – Kevan Hurst (Anthony Straker 88), Conor Clifford, Ryan Leonard, Will Atkinson – Cauley Woodrow (Craig Reid 85), Barry Corr. Subs (not used): Paul Smith (gk), Ryan Auger, Michael Timlin.

Jim cock-a-hoop after Team GB outing

Basketball

A DISABLED teenager is celebrating after playing as part of Team GB for the first time.

Jim Parker, from Billericay, joined as the squad's youngest member as the team battled through to the semi-finals of the Wheelchair Basketball Under 23 World Championships.

The 16-year-old, who attends Seevic College, said: "The experience of being part of the squad was absolutely amazing and I thoroughly enjoyed every minute."

"The whole team worked incredibly well together and there was a great team spirit."

The team came fourth in the contest, which was held in Turkey over 10 days last month, but Jim achieved a personal best with an average 18 minutes of playing time per match.

Jim, who has been paralysed from the waist down since birth, took up wheelchair basketball at the age of 10 and was first spotted by a Team GB scout aged 12.

The teenager was chosen to play for Team GB at this year's World Championships after narrowly missing out on selection for the European Championships in 2012.

He added: "I was so nervous before I found out I had been chosen. I'd worked hard and took on board advice from coaches to boost my fitness and become faster on the court."

Jim, who also plays for the London Titans in East London, said that his family had been his biggest supporters and he now hopes to play in the Paralympics in 2016 or 2020.

He added: "My parents and my sister are really supportive and I couldn't have made it into the Team GB squad without them. They don't look at me as being any different to anyone else. I've always had the opportunities to try anything that I've wanted to."

Jim, who previously attended Mayflower High School in Billericay, has been studying a Level 2 BTEC Diploma in Sport & Exercise Science at Seevic College since September.

Hawkins double sinks Manor in timid confrontation

Southend Manor 0
Great Waking Rovers 2
Essex Senior League
Brian Jeeves reporting from Southchurch Park Arena.

SOUTHEND Manor and Great Waking Rovers recommenced their rivalry, just a week after the pair fought out a nine-goal thriller in the Essex Senior Cup. However, this time there were no such fireworks from what turned out to be a drab and somewhat timid affair.

During a disappointing first period, opportunities were at a premium as the defences came out on top. Nick Skelton and Ashley Hawkins had early chances for Rovers while Stuart Hepburn cleared his lines after Manor's Mark Sisson's effort had eluded Dale Brightly in the visitor's goal.

Rovers wanted a return to winning ways following Saturday's defeat at championship rivals Enfield, Hepburn went close to opening the scoring, only to see Lawrence Priddle pull off a brilliant save from his point-blank header, then the Manor keeper made a smart stop to deny Hawkins.

Daniel William's went close for the home side, but Brightly was equal to his headed attempt. Nevertheless, as the half drew to a close it was clear to the bumper crowd of 122 that the teams had largely cancelled each other out.

In a bold move, Rovers player-manager Dan Trenkel brought both himself and Joe Skeels on for the second half in a bid to open the game up. Indeed, the visitors almost broke the deadlock when Priddle once again denied Hawkins with a top draw save low to his right.

Rovers were now clearly looking the more likely, and after sixty-seven minutes, the impressive Hawkins gave them the lead, steering the ball low past Priddle and into the net.

Despite Rovers dominating the second period, Brightly had to be on his toe's to rebuff Sisson's snapshot following Tom Newell's flag kick, while Priddle was once again in the thick of the action, scooping out Gary Paterson's half hit attempt.

After 82 minutes, Hawkins finally put the game to bed, lashing a loose ball high into the net for his and Rovers second of the evening. The victory keeps Rovers in amongst the early season promotion contenders while Manor will look to bounce back at Takeley this coming Saturday.

Manor: Priddle, Danso, Drury, Jude, Peck, Newell, Sisson, Bright, D. Williams, J. Williams, Chia-Titor

Rovers: Brightly, Pugsley, Kent, Collins, Hepburn, Skelton, Radley, Smith, Paterson, Hawkins, Baldwin.
Rovers subs: Fletcher, Sparrow, Trenkel, Skeels.

Napier signs for two more years

GRAHAM Napier has signed a new two-year contract, which will keep him at Essex County Cricket Club until the 2015 season. Napier, 33, had a memorable season for Essex in 2013 with 796 runs and taking 51 wickets in 17 First-Class games.

In particular, his highlight of the season was taking 4 wickets in 4 balls against Surrey in the Yorkshire Bank 40 competition, which was later voted as the 'Champagne Moment of the Year' during the Essex Cricket end of season gala dinner.

Graham said, "To sign a new contract with Essex for the next 2 years is excellent and feels like a huge reward after the best season I have ever had in my career at the Club."

Head Coach, Paul Grayson also expressed his delight on Napier committing a further two years to Essex. "I am very happy that Graham has signed a new contract, especially after the sensational season he experienced last year."

"The 2013 season showed how important Graham is to the team when fully fit and I'm sure he will continue to be key member of the side for the next two years."
